Spingarn High School-summer -

I worked 6 hours each day with the Metropolitan Police Department the department was committed to working with the city's teens to prepare them for a successful career in whatever field they choose. During the summer of 2009, MPD had a record number of youth through their partnership with the Department of Employment Services. They provided me with the knowledge and skills if I wanted to have a career in law enforcement such as the application process for sworn membership, the background investigation process, and career development advice on interviewing and drafting a resume. If I was interested in becoming police officers, they gave me the skills to succeed by meeting with MPD recruiters and arrange to take the entry-level examination during their six week program.
